WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT HER:

Amazing...exceptional work ethic...leads by example...during her off-season off-season she manages the wrestling team...takes the time to help those around her...winning games for the team is always more important than leading the team in goals...always the first player on the field and the last one off, often practicing her shooting for hours after practice...one of the most skilled and dedicated athletes ever to attend Great Valley...commands the respect of her teammates, the adoration of fans, and the admiration of the coaches and players from other teams...a refreshing and delightful young lady whose character and sense of morals are highly revered by all...is in the gym every day working out with her trainer...just will not quit...one of the hardest working players I have ever known...a coach's dream...she makes others look better...one of my favorite students of all time...the type of student whom teachers love- wish we had more like her...motivates teachers to be prepared...is so good in the classroom that, as a teacher, I didn't want to let her down...even though she's a star athlete, she doesn't bring an attitude or ego into the classroom...has written some of the best research papers that I've read...if teachers spent their careers teaching student-athletes like Mallory, none would ever retire...one of the toughest girls I know, she's endured a lot and pulled through...AWESOME!
